Ha Long Bay

Vietnam
Ha Long Bay is a large area on the edge of the sea. It has lots of enormous rock pillars that come out of the water.
The rocks are made of limestone. Some of the rocks have huge caves inside them with interesting shapes on their walls and ceilings.
Some of the rocks have tunnels. In a few places boats can go through the tunnels.
Ha Long Bay has so much water that they must use boats to get around. This man likes to paddle with his feet instead of his hands.
They use their boats to buy and sell things. This merchant sells fruit from her boat. After she sells some fruit, she rows to a new place to sell more.
